Oppose Versailles Treaty, Yet Peace Resolution Recognizes It.

By DAVID LAWRENCE. Dopyright 1921, by Jenesville Gazeite. Washington-Has the "irreconcilable" element in the United States sonate unwittingly played a joke on liself? This group opposes the Versailles treaty and would prefer not to have it submitted, even with reservations, but Charles Evans Hughes, secretary of state, and lawyer extendingly, has grasped one sentence in the Knox-Porter peace resolution which has the property of the peace of the lawyer of the Knox-Porter peace resolution which has the peace of the lawyer of the peace of the lawyer of the peace resolution which has the peace of the lawyer of the lawye just been signed by President Har-ding and that one sentence is the key to the the key to the whole Stunction.

It is that section of the peace resolution, which announces that while the United States declares state of peace with Germany, the Washington government does not yield any of the rights obtained either by signing the armistice or through the Versailles treaty. The resolution of congress specifically mentions the Versailles pact.

Now, asks Mr. Hughes in effect, how can the government here conserve american rights under the Versailles treaty by officially discarding that document? Mr. Hughes doesn't intend to throw it aside. He intends to use it. He regards the resolution of congress as imposing a duty on the executive branch of our government to safeguard all American rights under the Versailles treaty. Feeling that way, he will recommend retification of that treaty with reservations.

Harding Has Final Say

President Haw Final Say
President Harding will have the final say as to what shall be done and he is being besought by members of the senate to forget the Versailles treaty and make a new pact with Germany, calling it not a treaty of "marky and". of peace but a treaty of "amity and commerce."

of peace but a treaty of "amity and commorce."

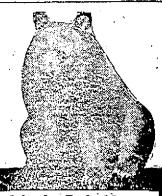

But Secretary Hughes has gone at his job with the same energy as he used to give to the preparation of a case before this supreme court of the United States. Ever since congress passed the peace resolution, Mr. Flughes has been concentrating on his part of the task. Congress having acted, he feels it is up to the executive to move next. Mr. Hughes has lost no time. He has been in constant configence with Mr. Harding for two days and, while he refuses publicly to discuss his plans, there is no doubt about the kind of advice he is giving Mr. Harding Secretary Hughes gives the impression of a big lawyer advising his most valuable client. He will tell the United States government what should be done to safeguard rights the United States government what should be done to safeguard rights growing out of the European war. He will recommend certain things as a lawyer and a jurist. It will be up to Mr. Harding, as president and custodian of American foreign policy, to say whether he will follow law or domestic notities. It is true the irdomestic polities. It is true the ir-reconcilable element is making con-siderable noise but the irreconcilables are not as strong as they were when the Wilson administration was in power and the entire republican party was conducting a general ac-

Now Party Matter

Now it becomes a party matter. One of the irreconcilables himself privately admits that if Mr. Harding privately admits that if Mr. Harding and Mr. Hurthes got together on a program and announce it, there will be considerable support for the same, even from the irreconcilable group. Exp predicted that if Mr. Harding made the treaty a party matter probably only a half dozen vetes would be cast against it. Certainly the democrats would support the Versallies treatly, even though they will make determined but probably vain offert to retain the clauses reforming to the League of Nations. More than two thirds of the senate favors ratification of the Versallies treaty with regervations. Previous yeter show that and present sentiment confirms it.

Furthermore, Mr. Hughes probably will advise his effect that unless the Vermilles treaty is used as a basis. just as President Harding said in his first message to congress that he belived it would be the wiser course to follow, the entire foreign policy of the United States will be in a tangle. Cortainly one big fact already has leaked out of the department of state. It is that there is no present intertion of renewing diplomatic relations with Germany until a treaty is affined between Germany and the United States. The Knex-Porter resolution is really a one-sided affair. It proclaims a state of peace so far as statutes of the United States are concerned. It doesn't bind Germany and Mr. Hughes is going slow about giving to Germany the advantages of a peace-time relationship with the United States until Germany signs on the dotted line a treaty disposing of the many claims which the United States holds directly, and indirectly against her.

Even the proclamation of a state of pence, which usually makes peace an established fact after a treaty has been signed and ratified has not-been issued by the White House. The delay is significant. It is one thing to have a congressional resolution declare a state of peace. It is another thing to put forth a proclamation notifying the world, including Germany, that the United States considers herself at peace. If the latter were true, there would be no need of a treaty of speace at all and the law-Delay Significant yers are expressing themselves against issuing a proclamation of peace until after a treaty with Germany has been made.

Mr. Harding is, at the parting of the ways again. He has hoped against hope for a compromise. But the "Irreconcilables" don't see it that way and they are making trouble by threatening all sorts of things if the Versailles treaty comes back to the threatening all solts of things it the versailles treaty comes back to the senate. But Mr. Harding must foil low the advice of his distinguished council, the secretary of state, or follow the senate group which has blocked ratification from the start. The chances are he will stand by Mr. Hughes. Hughes.

One of his first jobs was the wedding of Mr. Rameses II to a liftitio Princess. Cupid was even then a young chap. The hieroglyphics of, the wedding have been efaced by the corrosive tooth of time. The statement of the star society writer on what the bride were is lost to the world. Cupid doesn't know, and he admits it, whether she were white satin, or a dimity, or a "puh-puh-swah" with a shower bouquet. No mention is made whether the bride blushed or who caught her garter or the bouwhether the bride blashed of who caught her garter or the bou-quet, or that the wedding table "groaned under the weight of the good things to eat" at the feast. History doesn't even know what the groom wore, or where the 'happy and popular young couple' spent their honeymoon—not to mention their monds.

However, it is agreed that the wedding of Rameses long before B. C. was "one of the most brilliant functions of the season."

"Never mind, all of us will have to get busy at the grind again in September, for that month will be a successful as was June in as successful as was June in Rock county," advised Dan Cupid, who is on his vacation.

THE HOT SPELL.

Janesville and this section of Southern Wisconsin has been passing through more than three weeks of weather which has no precedent in any June on record, and is of a kind that we have seldom experienced even in August when the temperature is expected to be high. The danger has not been so much in the discomfort to humanity, as to crops. The Gazette, on Wednesday, indicated after an investigation that the crop lajury was not large at this time but a continuation of hot weather would be disastrous. Weather is always a gamble to the farmer. He has a fight on his hands from the time the seed is sown until the harvest and his antagonist is nature, as we meet her from day to day. It is not a whit more satisfactory to know that other parts of the country are also in the same boat and that the hot spell has not alone come to us here. Even in that section of Wisconsin where tourists hasten to seek cooler breezes and nights when the camp fire is needed, there have been no such days as in the past. Heat has died in committee, been greater and crop damage to the farmers of the north part of the state larger than here in the south. 'The woods and lake shores have been suffocatingly, tropically hot.

We have many things to compensate us and to temper the heat—shady streets, lawns, homes not too crowded and those opportunities to the comfort at one's home. In fact when one reads about the heat at the resorts we are of the opinion that right here at home is about the most satisfactory zummer place possible to find.

From the list of ensualties of the Fourth it would seem that the only safe place on that day is locked up at home.

INCREASE IN POSTAL RATES

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN Washington, D. C.—The newspapers and periodicals of the United States lost a fight of many year's standing late in June, when the house committee on post offices tabled the Longworth bill which would have nullified the second class postal increases which went into effect July 1. Albert S. Burleson, postmaster general through-nut both Wilson administrations, fought long and rdently to put this measure on the statute books, and won outswith the help of the then democratic and won outwith the help of the then democrate majorities in both houses of congress.

The increase in second class postal rates, which affects all newspapers and periodicals, —is the fourth of a succession of annual increases. The first recurred on the 1 day. Prior to the day first occurred on July 1, 1918. Prior to that date. he postal rate for second class matter was unithe postal rate for second class matter was uniform for newspapers and periodicals, no matter what distance it was sent to the subscriber. The recent postmaster general and those who sided with him attacked this system as a subsidy granted by the government, and contended that, in the transportation of this speed class mail the next

The answer was that an increase of postal rates on this kind of mail matter was putting a heavy tax on the dissemination of information tax on the dissemination of including magazines of national circulation were particularly bitter against the increases. A zoning system went into effect at the time, which made it necessary and administration of the control of the essary to put much more postage on a periodical sent, let us say, from a New York office of publication to a subscriber on the Pacific coast, than on a similar periodical sent to a subscriber in Newark, N. J. . . . . .

ca by the government, and considerable sum, office department actually lost a considerable sum.

The system now in effect provides eight zones. The first zone includes territory for 50 miles in all directions. The second zone embraces an adall directions. The second was considered and ditional 100 miles, the third zone 50 miles more, the fourth zone an additional 300 miles. Zone five takes in territory 400 miles beyond the limits of zone four; zone six adds another 400 miles, as does zone seven, and zone eight includes all territory beyond the limits of the seventh zone.

A difference was made between pure reading matter and advertising matter, but this is of little matter and advertising matter, but this is of little benefit, as practically every newspaper and periocical-today is made up of a mixture of both. When the first increase went into effect, the rates per poend of mail became 114 cents for the first and second zones, 114 cents for the third zone, 2 cents for the fourth zone, 24 for the lifth zone.

cents for the fourth zone. 3 cents for the seventh 2% for the sixth zone. 3 cents for the seventh zone, and 5% cents for the eight zone.

The following year these rates were increased again, varying from 1% cents a pound in the first the contrary pound in the eight. and second zones to 5 1/2 cents a pound in the eight

The increase on July 1, 1920, carried these rates up to 1 3-4 cents a pound in the first and second zone with proportionate increases all along the line up to 7 3-4 cents a pound in the eight zone. The rates which have just gone into effect are, for each pound of second class mail, as follows: First and second zones, 2 cents; third zone, 3 cents; fourth zone, five cents; fifth zone, 6 cents; sixth zone, 7 cents; seventh zone, 9 cents; eighth zone, 10 cents.

The newspapers and periodicals have been making a last ditch fight to prevent the last in-erease going into effect until the new postmuster inst boost in mail rates was able to his bill. It is actly how the committee voted on his bill. It is international health board selected him in 1917 to direct his fight against tuberculosis in France. It is not impossible to get the bill before the house, it is now impossible to get the bill before the house for its consideration except by going to the rules committee and, by overriding the committee which killed the bill, order it reported to the house.

Even if this course was pursued, with the bulk of the committee members actively opposing the measure, it is extremely doubtful if favorable action could be precured from the membership of the House. Proponents of the Longworth bill and the house of fice department itself have suffered a will please everybody, is to raise the duties on the long long and health board selected him in 1917 to direct his fight against tuberculosis in France. Sale Commencing Saturday, July 9th, at 9:00 a. m., and closing Saturday night, July : 16th,—7 big selling days.

During July and August our store will be closed every Wednesday afternoon.

We extend a very urgent invitation to the people of this city and to all the people of Southern Wisconsin to visit our store during this midsummer sale. We will have many low priced bargains to offer and we want you here to help share in them. This will without a doubt be one of the biggest, low priced bargain events that this store has ever had the pleasure of entering into. For we will during the seven days undertake to clear our racks, clean our shelves, tables and counters of all spring and summer merchandise. To accomplish this and do it within this short space of time we know that we must completely ignore former prices and forget profit entirely and mark everything down to a lower price than ever before. That you will agree with us we do know after seeing our prices when we say that all summer goods are marked down exceedingly low and with it one thought in mind, to close out everything quickly as possible regardless of former prices or profits.

Women who come to shop during Janesville's MID SUM-MER SALE should make it a point to stop in and see this wonderful machine demonstrated.

This is the machine with the figure eight motion—the exclusive feature that makes the 1900 CATARACT so efficient. Just think of it, by means of the magic figure 8 movement the water is forced through the clothes in a perfect figure eight motion and four times oftener than in an ordinary washer.

Then there's the swinging reversible wringer. And the copper tub with not a part to lift out and clean.

We'll send a 1900 Washer right to your house, and let you try it out. And if you like you may buy it on deferred payments.
